William Hodge in "Fixing Sister" Wil Appeal to Local Theatre Patrons.

Fixing Sister, with William Hodge's quaint humor and truthful characterization of John Otis, a successful American business man, will catch the theatregoers' fancy in this city when he appears at the Daxls theatre o Tuesday evening, May 23, in this play The pleasing element of pure Americanism and clean comedy of this play has come as refreshing as a summe

Pashionable New York life forms the background of Mr. Hodge's newest success, in which "sister" is a part. She is rich and luxury-loving young the widow, who plunges headlong into the maddest follies of the day. She becomes involved as well, in a matrimonial venture with a bogus foreign nobleman of somewhat uncertain antecedents. The nobleman plays a double game as well which threatens the love romance of Otis himself Hodge as Otis, comes post haste from Kansas City to save his sister from the difficulties she has gotten herself into through her falls the difficulties she has gotten herself into through her felly, extravagance and title-worshiping. Upon his arrival he plunges into the social whirl done evening clothes, dances, plays bridge and roulette, flirts and cuts up scandalously, but he does it for a purpose. He is merely cloaking his real purpose. Eventually he routs the two adventurers who are trying to defraud his sister and incidentally wins the heart of "the sweetest little girl in the world."

And he is as much at home in the most exclusive social circles as he is in the chairman's seat at a meeting of the board of directors of one of the huge husiness corporations.

Scientifically, Fixing Sister is on of the most ambitious things Mr. Hodge has done. Its gorgeous settings of the period of Louis XV is a rare by of the period of Louis XV is a rare by

$ A Home Without Pain

* There is scarcely a home in many places that does not have, ready for instant use, a bottle of Minard's Liniment, because this old, reliable, creamy liniment always brings speedy relief from pain. Its influence is felt the moment it is applied—and it has been sold successfully in thousands of towns for more than 60 years-because most every one knows that where Minard's is, you will find a home without pain. Pain of every kind gives way to a simple Minard Liniment treatment. It is stainless, economical and clean to use, and is always dependable.

POETRY

If war should come, hot-breathed and

IF WAR SHOULD COME.

If war should come, hot-meaned and iron-heeled.
To blow its fury on us, and to tread Where long the hand of hard-earned pence has spread.
Success and profit; if the bells were pealed Proclaiming our beloved land the field For coming battle, would your hear! srow weak.
Your blood run limpld and your pulse-beat slow.
With thought of terror that you could not speak?
And would your courage shrink, as from a blow.
Refusing ald through lack of confidence?
Or would you hear the summons, calmiy steeled in splendid knowledge of your competence.
Your country's strength, and that, the best of all.
Her patriot love, innats in great and small? I speak for Self. Were war's bold clarion wound and all the earth powers salling over seas.
To rend our shores. I would put faith in these.
The old traditions, noble, same and sound.
Which in our nation's annals still are found.
Fright should not palsy, neither bring dismay.
To my strong soul, but with integrity. I, too, would arm to smite in war's own way.
Those who had dared to bring such woe to me!
They will not find us weaklings, unprepared,
Who come to stain with blood our sacred ground.
For that proud spirit our forefathers shared
Lives in our bosoms. We will thwart, cefy,

Lives in our bosoms. We will thwart, defy,
And in the end a lasting victory ary!
